ANSWERS DIVORCEE'S CALL

Divorced Husband of Accused Woman Hurries to Help
Her Fight Charge.By United Press Leased Wire
Los Angeles, Calif.—William Wylie, Friday turned over to the authorities
the stock of a 12 gauge shot gun which he said he found on the beach near Santa Monica on Saturday.It is thought to be part of the gun with which John Belton Kennedy was killed at nearby Beverly Glen, Friday at midnight.Kennedy's assassin is believed to have rushed in an automobile from Beverly Glen to Santa Monica immediately after the murder, throwing the gun in the ocean and sped on to Los Angeles.The speedometer on a for-hire automobile which Dick Parsons, garage man, testified that he had rented to Arthur C. Burch on the night of the tragedy, registered 44 miles, the exact distance from Los Angeles to Beverly Glen and return via Santa Monica.

Calls for Husband

Mrs. Maladyne Obenchain indicated with Burch for the murder of Kennedy Friday placed all her hopes in the man who she "always respected" even when her heart was elsewhere"—her divorced husband, who is speeding here from Chicago to assist her.Mrs. Obenchain on the verge of collapse from her harrowing experience revealed for the first time why she sent for Burch to come to Los Angeles after the tragedy."The poor boy—he had nothing to do with it," she murmured. "I brought him into all this trouble and will clean him if I can.""Arthur Burch came here because I sent for him.""I asked him in the spirit of friendship—help him in business, after he had failed in the east."

Burch Blameless

"Insinuations of a three cornered affair involving myself, Belton and Burch are false, as bitterly false as much else that has been said since Belton was shot down that night in the dark little glen.""Burch had been working for a motion picture firm in the east and had written me that it was about to fail.
I urged him to come west where I believed conditions would be much more favorable for his endeavors.""A contributing factor in my advising him was that I knew something of his unhappy domestic affairs somewhat similar to my own.""These two points constituted my whole motive.""He had nothing to do with the murder—the whole case is simply a terrible coincidence."She was confident that her divorced husband Ralph R. Obenchain, who is coming to her help, will win her freedom. She said she held unbound faith that he will save her from "unfortunate consequences in this terrible murder."Both Maladyne and Burch refused to testify when brought before the grand jury which returned indictments against them. Twenty-five witnesses were called to testify against them.

Rushes to Help

Chicago, Ill.—Ralph Obenchain, answering the call of his beautiful divorced wife, was enroute to Los Angeles Friday to aid her fight murder charges.The "good fellow" in the sordid tragedy of the slaying of John Belton Kennedy, wasted no time after receiving the appeal of the attractive Maladyne Connor Obenchain.Within three hours he caught the fastest train to Los Angeles. He was accompanied by the Rev. A. W. Burch, father of Arthur C. Courtney Burch, held with Maladyne in connection with the murder.It was only a few days ago young Burch, answering a similar appealing telegram for help from Maladyne, started without any hesitation on nearly a cross continent trip to be at her side.AGREE TO ELIMINATE DYESTUFFS EMBARGOBy United Press Leased Wire
Washington, D. C.—The American valuation plan, with modifications, was adopted by the senate finance committee Friday as the basis of the tariff bill. Republican members present voted unanimously for it. Republican members of the house ways and means committee, present at the meeting, agreed to the modifications.Virtual agreement to eliminate the dyestuffs embargo proposal was reached, it was said. This question was referred to a subcommittee composed of Senators Smoot, Utah; Dil-lingham, Vermont; and Representative Longworth, Ohio and Frear, Wisconsin.CHILDREN'S FRIEND
DIES FROM BAD TOOTHFargo, N. D.—The body of Miss Lila-n Topping, who died Thursday night as a result of infection from an ulcer-ated tooth, will be taken to Buffalo, N. Y., for burial tomorrow, following services in the chapel at the Florence Crittenden home here. Miss Topping was superintendent of the Crittenden home for girls for 13 years and was well known in juvenile welfare circles throughout the country.Harding Says Wedding Was Kind Of SuddenBy United Press Leased Wire
Marion, Ohio—"We just thought we'd like to get married—and so we did."And that is the whole story of the "elopement" of Dr. G. T. Harding, father of the president, with Miss Alice Severns, nurse, as the bridegroom explained it here Friday."It was all so sudden, you know," the new Mrs. Harding explained.The couple, all smiles and fidgety were eager to tell "just how it was.""It was simple as could be. We"— Harding, who is 76 said pointing to his bride 52, "just thought there was no time better than the present."Asked if his wife was a good cook, Harding said:"Maybe—I can tell you all about that later on. I'm not worried about it."The town of Marion, scene of the Harding campaign, was exultant over the announcement of the marriage.50 LAUNDRYMEN
ARE ATTENDING
MEETING HEREInsurance and Legislation to Be Discussed by Prominent Men.The Wisconsin Laundry Owners association is holding a sectional meeting at the Sherman house. It is also the first quarterly meeting of the fiscal year and about 50 laundry owners from all parts of the state are in attendance. The purpose of the meeting, according to R. T. Emerson, of Milwaukee, president, is general advancement of the business for the mutual benefit of patrons and owners.Mrs. Max Schlosser, 22, who was seized by the three marauders as she stepped from the front porch of her home Monday night and her hair backed off, was unable to give authorities any further information. She did not recognize the men in the darkness and could not give an accurate description of them.Authorities are convinced the purpose of the marauders was to burn the house and attack on Mrs. Schlosser was only an incident in the plot.No reason can be discovered why any one should want to destroy the Schlosser home. While officers admit they have a young man living in the community under surveillance, the evidence against him is too vague
at this time to justify his arrest, they said.Unless the state fire marshal's man can solve the mystery it will be written off as one of the enigmas of the country's history, authorities said.WANT STATE FIRE

MYSTERIOUS FIRECounty Authorities Baffled by Night Attack on Watertown Family.By United Press Leased Wire Watertown, Wis.—The state fire marshal's office was Friday asked by Jefferson county officials to solve the attack on Mrs. Max Schlosser and the subsequent destruction of the Schlosser home by three incendiaries.Both District Attorney Twining and Sheriff W. A. Doelster, admitted their investigations had led them no where and that they were completely baffled by the mystery.Mrs. Max Schlosser, 22, who was

SILESIAN MUDDLEBy United Press Leased Wire
Paris—Colonel George Harvey, Friday declared that the United States prefers to stay aloof from strictly European questions.Replies to a question during the alleged supreme council session today he declared that it was with a sense of relief he saw the Silesian problem referred to a body with which the United States is not associated.The council has just decided to ask the league of nations to solve the Silesia situation.Harvey declared the same view was held by President Harding."President Harding has felt from the beginning," he said, "that this matter is one of European concern. It will be with a sense of relief that he will learn of the confirmation of this view by the supreme council in reference to a body with which the United States is not associated.These two points constituted my whole motive."He had nothing to do with the gin, million dollar defaulter of the Michigan Avenue Trust company, had again grown cold.Nothing has come of reports that the missing banker had been arrested in Chihuahua City, Mexico. The latest info is that Spurgin is hiding in Col-

is now in progress.FOUR WAGON DRIVER UNION HEADS INDICTEDChicago, Ill.—Four officials of the mill wagon driver's union were indicted Friday for alleged conspiracy to boycott and cohort.Those indicted are Robert Fitch, president; William Neer, secretary;
Steven Summer and Louis Misch, business agents.The grand jury, when it resumes sessions next week, will be given evidence of alleged misdeeds of dairy owners and farmers, assistant State Attorney Michels stated.Brown's instructions were that all Americans should be given a chance to leave Russia. Haywood's name and some of the others were not on the list furnished Brown by the state department so Brown has asked for instructions in the matter.The answer of American officials is expected to reach Brown Friday.It is to the effect that all Americans should be given the opportunity to leave the country, but in cases where American government, and representatives of the soviet government, are puzzled by the "soviet ark" but who claim they are Americans.These men do not want to leave Russia," Envoy Litvinoff said.Haywood, In Russia, Slows Up U. S. Aid For SufferingWashington—"Big Bill" Haywood, wanted by this government to serve out a 20 year term in Fort Leavenworth, has caused a hitch in the relief plans for soviet Russia. It developed Friday at the office of Herbert Hoover, head of the American relief administration. Haywood, who made his way to Russia instead of joining the other I. W. W.'s in jail, is in the list of Americans still in Russia.Walter L. Brown, relief commissioner, and representatives of the soviet government, are puzzled by Haywood's case and that of the others who were detained on the "soviet ark" but who claim they are Americans.These men do not want to leave

ATTACK ON MINE BOSSSESSullivan, Ind.—County authorities expected to make more arrests
Friday in connection with the revival of the miners' vigilantes in southern Indiana.Riley Griffiths and Frank Williams were charged with riotous conspiracy following the expulsion of two mine bosses from the county and threats of mob violence against others if they did not leave. Warrants were issued for four other men.WRECKED STEAMER, ON ROCKS, CALLS FOR AIDSan Diego, Calif.—The stranded steamer San Jose called for aid Friday.
The steamer Griffiths, which was standing by, was forced to leave because of weather conditions. It is feared the San Jose will rapidly pound to pieces on the rocks. The officers and crew were on board.The demand for the copy of the grand jury deliberations was made by John Miller of Deratay, representing Attorney C. C. LaForge of the Small ring. The fact these papers were wanted by LaForge indicates it is he who will direct the fight for a change of venue, as it probably will be in that connection the papers will be used.Dan McGarry, superintendent of the Peerless mine, ran a gauntlet of revolver and rifle bullets late yesterday as he was leaving the mine. A group of forty to fifty men were assembled nearby and as McGarry started away in his machine a fusillade of shots

Goodsell Not To Be Pastor Of Church Here

Dr. Henry Goodsell has rejected the call sent him by the First Methodist church of this city in favor of a more important call to the largest Methodist church in Colorado, at Denver. Dr. Goodsell has been pastor of the First Methodist church at Madison for several years. He is a graduate of Lawrence college where he received his doctor's degree last June.

He is recognized generally as the most popular minister in Wisconsin. He has accepted the call to Denver believing the change of climate will be beneficial to Mrs. Goodsell's health. Dr. Goodsell is very fond of Wisconsin, and spends his summer vacations tramping about the state, frequently walking to some small village Saturday night and preaching on Sunday.

SCOUT CAMPERS TO HOLD FINAL RALLY TONIGHT

Sixty Boys to Be Assigned Their Duties at Onaway Camp Starting Monday.

Sixty happy boy scouts will meet at 7:30 Friday evening in the banquet room of the Y. M. C. A. to receive last instructions before embarking for Camp Onaway Monday. They will be told where to centralize baggage, about transportation arrangements and other matters in preparation for the big outing.

Camp positions were assigned the adult leaders at a meeting Wednesday evening. Howard P. Buck, scout executive, is to be camp director. Chris Mullen will be camp adjutant, and John Roach assistant. Leigh Hooley will have charge of instruction. William Garvey of swimming and Harry Leith will be camp reporter. Richard Tuttrup has been appointed camp bugler. Mrs. H. P. Buck is to be in charge of the camp canteen, bank and bookkeeping.

Mr. Buck will have general supervision of the camp, and Mr. Mullen the assignment of daily duties and responsibility for maintaining a camp schedule.

Dr. J. L. Benton will accompany the boys Monday and will give first aid instruction in the afternoon. He will give each scout a physical examination Tuesday and then will return to Appleton. The campers will be divided into three platoons, with a first aid man in each group and a first aid officer over all three. There will be seven scouts to a tent.

Lessons in thrift will be taught through a camp bank which is to be established the first day. Each boy will be required to deposit all money he brings with him. He will draw whatever amount he needs by check, and will receive deposit slips for all he places in the bank. Canteen cards are to be purchased at $2.50 each and numbers around the border will be punched out as the scouts make purchases. These arrangements will make it unnecessary for any boy to carry money in his pockets or have it in his tent.

Herman J. Thoreson of the H. J. Thoreson Lumber company has relieved the council of transportation worries. One of the company's trucks will be turned over to the scouts Sunday in return for only a small expense fee. Mr. Thoreson instructed that it be kept at camp until the boys are ready to come home. The truck is large enough to transport all baggage. Each boy's luggage will be collected at a central point and loaded ready for an early start Monday.

Private automobiles are to convey the boys to camp. Each scoutmaster is arranging his own transportation, and most of the troops already have been taken care of. No boy will be obliged to pay out railroad fare.

The camp committee is going over the list of names and making up the tent groups. Selections will be made according to the best judgment of the committee rather than on a plan of grouping companions. More interest in camp activities and competition, and a chance to become acquainted with new companions, is expected to be the result. Troop meetings are to be held regularly, however, to foster troop spirit. An older scout will be appointed as leader in each tent.

The state bonus statute, popularly known as the "two-four-eight" law, aims to encourage teachers to teach more than one year in the same school.

The law's nickname is derived from its provisions. The law provides that for two years' teaching in one school the teacher shall receive a bonus of $2 per month. For three years' continuous teaching in one school the bonus is $4 per month and for four or more years' teaching in one school a bonus of $8 per month is granted.

A carload of watermelons was sidetracked in the Northwestern freight yards Wednesday not so far from the two private cars of Harvey's minstrels and the way some of the melons disappeared was not slow. The melons were carved lengthwise and for nearly an hour the dusky actors had their faces buried in the long sections. It was a typical "coontown" scene.

POTATO FIELDS ARE ABANDONED TO BUGS

Prolonged Dry Spell Has Ruined Potato Crop in This Part of County.

Growers in the vicinity of Appleton Junction have abandoned their potato patches with the result the vines are being stripped by bugs. In several instances a portion of the vines have also been devoured.

The plants received careful attention until a week ago when it was discovered there was no sign of potatoes under vines that should have been producing. This condition is said to be due to the prolonged drought.

While he is still giving his crop attention, B. C. Wolter, 1519 Spencer st., said he planted three varieties, early, medium and late, and the largest potatoes he found beneath did not exceed the size of a marble and the majority were even smaller. The early potatoes were no larger than the late ones.

He is still hopeful that his late potatoes may yield a partial crop, but does not expect any returns from his early and medium varieties.

THE ALASKA

Scores of fear-conquering deeds of rare and impressive heroism featured the rescue of the terrified passengers from the steamer Alaska off the coast of California. Seamen and landlubbers, men and women, vied with one another in preventing panic and saving lives, and according to accounts of the perilous adventures, there were a dozen persons or more whose exceptional bravery entitled them to medals. Least dramatic but most effective and resultful of all the exploits were the perfect self-control and calm behavior of the captain and the stewardess in enforcing discipline among the excited passengers.

As soon as the boilers of the vessel exploded, Mrs. George A. Campbell, the stewardess, opened door after door along the deck, cautioned women and children to don life preservers and assemble at the rail, and quietly assured them there was but little danger if they would remain cool. Capt. Harry Hobey, speaking through a megaphone, commanded passengers and members of the crew to obey orders. "I am going down with the ship," he said, "but if you do what I tell you, nobody will go down but myself." The captain allotted the passengers among the lifeboats, encouraged the crew, and was still at his post when the ship sank in the sea.

It is the noblest kind of gallantry which exhibits total lack of fear and complete mastery of self in a sudden disaster and overwhelming emergency. It is the valor which springs not from lack of fear, but the sublime and dauntless bravery which deliberately suppresses all consideration of self and firmly overcomes every inward and outward sign of fear. The calm, sacrificial courage of the intrepid captain was scarcely more gallant and hypnotic than that of the thoughtful stewardess. The faithful and calm performance of duty by this man and woman, at the critical moment, preserved the discipline and confidence which saved the lives they held in trust.

Yet, the millions who read with breathless pride and admiration of Capt. Hobey's stolid heroism wonder why it is that he, like every other officer of his rank, felt that it was an obligation on him to go down with his ship. That the captain should save his passengers and not desert his ship is an old traditional and binding precept of the chivalry of the sea. It should not be considered glorious or necessary for a hero to give up his own life to fulfill a sentimental ideal of valor.

AMBASSADOR FRANCIS REVEALS
RUSSIAN SECRETS

Former Ambassador David R. Francis of St. Louis, who represented the United States in Russia during the stormy period from April, 1916, to November, 1918, says in his book, "Russia from the American Embassy," that he counseled President Wilson immediately after the armistice to dispose of the Bolshevik movement at once with an adequate allied military force. King George of England approved this advice.

President Wilson somewhat later on told the ambassador that both Premier Lloyd George of England and Premier Clemenceau of France had expressed to him their belief that it would be impossible to induce the British and French soldiers to persist in fighting, as these men were tired of war and possibly would want munition. President Wilson intimated that the American troops might manifest a similar disposition, but Mr. Francis argued that a large number of the American boys were disappointed at not having had a chance to go into battle, and they readily and cheerfully undertake to restore peace and order and assist in establishing secure and representative government in Russia.

The recommendation of Ambassador Francis and King George or the caution of President Wilson and Premiers Clemenceau and George were both only conjectural. The Russian situation was more problematical at that time than it is now, and nobody could foresee with any satisfying degree of positiveness which measure would rebound to the most advantage to Russia and the world at large. Had communism been suppressed would the radicals not have held to the conviction that Russia would have been more prosperous and happier under socialism, and would they not have agitated public sentiment continually by comparing their untried theories most favorably with the mistakes of republicanism? On the other hand, it is not unlikely that the freedom and benefits derived from representative government would have stilled completely the unreasonable demand for fanciful experimentation.

Clemenceau and George doubtless interpreted the feelings of their soldiers correctly. The men longed to return to home and quiet. Mr. Francis was doubtless correct in his opinion that the American soldiers would have been delighted to institute the American system of government in Russia, and the Russian people probably would have accepted with cordiality anything American. That the farmers, comprising eighty-five per cent of the population, were opposed to communism, as they still are, was an actual condition, which, looking back, supports the ambassador's recommendation.

It may yet be necessary to dispatch a strong army into Russia to assist the majority in forming stable, conservative government. Communism has proved to be an utter failure, and it cannot last much longer. Famine, plague and distress are conclusive demonstration of socialistic inefficiency.

THIRTY YEARS IN THE WHITE HOUSE

Mrs. Elizabeth D. Lemont-Lilley of Elkhorn, Md., who married Nelson P. Webster, disbursing clerk in the White house, possibly took under most favorable consideration the fact that he has been employed in the home of the nation's presidents for thirty years. So far as is known, nobody else has stayed in the White house that long: for a few of the occupants four or eight years have seemed both to them and the people to be excessive, and in at least several cases the fourth or eighth year has crawled over its course like a bird and crippled snail in a blizzard in a night of unfathomable blackness.

Most men who are in the service of one concern for twenty-five years thrust out their chests, brag of their equable temperaments, incur the enmity of their employers, and are promoted to inconspicuous positions and empty titles, and are chucked away in obscure corners. It must be conceded that holding a place in a domicile, not excepting the White house, calls for tact, even in such a popular official as a disbursing clerk.

Thirty days is, as an average, too long a term of service in most homes. The White house must have an exceptionally serene atmosphere as a residence. And then, too, it must have been in the disbursing clerk's latitude to let the first ladies overdraw their budgets.

STUDY IS NOT SUICIDE

Noted eastern educators have been discussing of late the generally credited assumption that inordinate study is detrimental to health, and often is suicidal to the eager, curious or ambitious few who pursue it. Their decision, which is unanimous, cannot be agreeable to persons who are victims of inertia, yet it should be comforting to over-solicitous mothers, wives and sweethearts, and encouraging to all who like to roam, oblivious to fatigue, or fearless of nervous collapse, in the fascinating realm of knowledge.

It is not study or work which breaks down health but carelessness and disease. If a person does not get enough sleep, or is reckless in his diet or eating, or neglects any of the important precautions to maintain his health and strength, he cannot even play, much less study.

Next to preserving health by observing the ordinary rules as to rest, food and eating, the chief essential is to diversify work or study. Long hours of study or work, and weeks or months of intense study or work, are not monotonous or tiring if they are relieved by variations, which of themselves are quieting and exhilarating.

EVASION IS NOT CONTROL.

Here is a letter from a mother. Her view of life comes like a breath of fresh air:

"My dear Dr. Brady: I am a woman of 40. I have had four children and am expecting a fifth. I have resided for thirty years in the same neighborhood, a rich farming country, where the farmers are all well-to-do, have fine houses, good automobiles, and enjoy the comforts of life. Here, where we have the best of food, fresh air, clean outdoors, playgrounds and no bad influences, it would seem we live in an ideal place to raise children, as future good citizens."

Yet, of the many couples I have seen grow up and marry, many refuse to have children, preferring freedom to go, and a chance to spend more freely on dress and their own good times. Many others have at most one or two children and speak with scorn of women like myself, who take the children as they come, believing it is the right way to do, whether considered from the viewpoint of good morals or of physical well-being for the woman and the welfare of the race.

"Now I know, of course, that a couple may to some extent control such things, and I certainly do not believe in the birth of a child every year in every family, but I think a normal couple should, if God so will, have children scattered over the whole happy period of a woman's child-bearing time, though I am lauded at by the 'birth control' devotees, if I venture to express such an opinion...."

"Very truly yours, "Mrs. ...."

"'Birth control' deserves to be set off with quotation marks because its devotees or advocates are not sincere in the use of the phrase. They do not mean to control the birth rate. They wish to evade the responsibilities of parenthood. Birth prevention is what they should call it."

Even granting that anybody has a moral or legal right to promulgate the doctrine of contra-ception, certainly no one has the right to speak or think scornfully of such a mother as the writer of this letter. Her ideals and views are refreshingly normal and sound, I am the viewpoint of morality. Mothers of families such as she is rearing are the finest types of womanhood one can find in the world, physically and in every other way.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Oil Scalp and Dandruff.

Please print a good recipe for oily scalp and dandruff. (Miss W. A. M.)

Answer—Once or twice a day apply to the scalp, not the hair, a few drops of this solution, bearing in mind the fact that resinous sometimes stains very light or gray hair yellowish:

Resorcin ..... 20 grains
Sulphuric acid ..... 10 grains

Any toilet water or pure alcohol ..... 2 ounces
If the scalp is too dry, a few drops of castor oil may be added to the formula.

Felon.

What is the best thing to do for a felon? I have been suffering with one on my thumb for four weeks. (M. S. P.)

Answer—The earlier you go under ether and have the felon properly incised and drained, the more quickly you will be well. Poulticing and applying salves and such things can only prolong the suffering and probably increase the damage done by the infection. A felon is a formation of pus (matter) deep against the bone or least under the hard, dense fibrous tissue of the thumb or finger—the pain arises from the tension of the confined pus. It is dangerous to daily with such an infection.

Lemon and Salts.

Is a wine-glassful of Rochelle salts and the juice of half a lemon injurious to take every morning before breakfast? A friend tol me it would reduce me. (P. E.)

Answer—Yes. The lemon juice is all right, but the salts would be most injurious. The stuff won't reduce you, unless by ruining your health. Less food and more exercise will reduce you surely and safely.

Twenty-Five Years Ago

Friday, Aug. 14, 1896.

H. D. Smith returned from a business trip to Chicago.

Justice Lennon was confined to his home by illness.

Apples were plentiful and the crop was the largest in the history of the county.

A. L. Smith, Jr., departed for the east after a several weeks' visit with Appleton relatives.

N. C. Bonnevie, who resigned as chemist at the Riverside Fibre Co.'s plant, left for Everett, Wash., to start up a new sulphite mill.

Miss Irene Marshall was the guest of friends at Seymour.

Dr. Remenking of Hortonville, was visiting his brother, F. C. Remenking.

R. H. Schmidt of Seymour, formerly principal of Ryan high school, with his family, called on Appleton friends.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Wickeri attended the wedding of J. J. Cooper and Miss Hattie Nelson at Neenah.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Vandegrift left for Manitowoc, where they were to make their permanent home.

A. L. DeLand was born the day previous to Mr. and Mrs. L. G. DeLand.

The offerings on the Outagamie County Dairy Board of Trade at Hortonville were 134 cheddars and 972 twins. The sales were 134 cheddars at 6½ cents and 498 twins at 6¾ cents.

James Morrow sold his interest in the grocery firm of Morrow & Bernhard to James Lyons.

Mark English, who built the second lock in Appleton in the seventies, died at his home at Green Bay.

HEDGED IN BY SUPERSTITION.

I did not realize until I was out in the African bush how complex is the life of a savage native, and how completely he is hedged in by rules and prohibitions, the breaking of which results often in death, if only by reason of his entire belief is the inviolability of these rules, writes a British traveler.

On one occasion a burly, deep-chested native of mine temporarily lost his voice. He came to me and speaking in a whisper, said: "Ewanai (Master). My most beautiful child is dead. My eldest, but less beautiful child, is ill. My wife has run away, taking with her my best cooking pot. I am not feeling well myself. Is it your will that I go away to sacrifice one chicken that the Evil Eye may be averted?"

I laughed at this idea until I remembered that, according to the ethnologists, the natives have lived in this state of ignorance for thousands of years, performing every act of life in accordance with those rules and prohibitions.

For instance, there are many strange customs in connection with journeys. Before a long journey is undertaken offerings must be made and complicated ceremonies performed. The journey must be abandoned or the course altered if a hyena has crossed the trail in a certain way, or if a woodpecker calls from one side of the road. In any case, it is the custom when crossing the first stream to dip the end of the bow into the water and place it on the lips. If a man drinks from the stream, he is about to cross he must retain the last mouthful and spit it back into the water when he reaches the far bank.

Uncle Sam's Hunters

By Frederic J. Haskin

Washington.—A long and bitter warfare is being waged within the borders of the United States, neither side asking nor caring for a truce. No armistice will be signed, and there will be no peace terms. The end of the battling will be the extinction of one element in the conflict. On one side are ranged between four and five hundred government hunters, professional killers employed by the biological survey of the department of agriculture.

H. P. Williams and Del Dearth, government hunters, were stringing some traps in Wyoming not long ago when a terrified sheep herder burst out of the bushes, white with fear, and putting like a locomotive. He paused long enough to explain that "The Bear" had chased him out of camp, and went his way at high speed. Williams and Dearth reached the camp as quickly as possible, and found it destroyed. They trailed the beast, and ran across a heap of forest debris, in which they found a side of bacon cached by "The Bear," the only title the beast had. There were not other bears to the Big Piney herders and campers, just the only big outlaw.

The hunters went along the trail a little farther, and suddenly the big killer charged them. Three bullets were placed behind the bear's ear by one hunter, and the other sent a shot through his spinal column. The beast lacked but a few yards of reaching them when he collapsed. The animal was extraordinarily large for his species, weighing 650 pounds, was six feet two inches long, and his hind foot measured 11 1/2 by 6 inches. He was terribly torn by a recent fight, evidently a conflict with a grizzly seen in the vicinity not long before.

Another recent animal outlaw to meet the same fate was "Old White," notorious and ferocious leader of a pack of wolves that for years caused terrific damage to the flocks around Bear Springs Mesa, Colorado. The hunters accounted for "Old White's" mate early in the year, and another wolf of the pack was shot, but the crafty leader kept out of sight and stepped lucky in avoiding traps. But finally a blind set of four traps proved too much for him, and his 12 years of cattle murder ended.

MASTER ANIMAL CRIMINAL.
The most dramatic death was that of "The Custer Wolf." The most adroitly concealed trap seemed as clear as daylight to him. He would kill in one spot one night, and be reported fifty miles away the next. Dead shots missed him clean time and again. The superstitious credited him with a charmed life. He was supposed by the credulous to be not merely a wolf, but a monstrosity, half wolf and half mountain lion, with the craft and cruelty of both. Public opinion credited him with all the qualities of the werewolf of ancient legends.

In the nine years of his outlawry around Custer, South Dakota, the "Custer Wolf" killed stock valued at $25,000. The bounty on his head was raised from $100 to $500. Professional hunters sought him for gain. Sportsmen sought him for glory. He laughed at danger, and continued his career of crime unscathed. The ranchmen tried a big roundup after dogs and poison failed, but this failed too, and Williams, the government hunter, was called in to do the job, with instructions to stick to it until the wolf was dead.

Williams located the wolf around some old dens in the Pelican Mountains. He scented up the soles of his shoes, and started stringing his traps. He got his first sight of the wolf after several days. The wily beast was flanked by two coyotes, ranging from 100 to 200 yards on either side of him. These beasts he tolerated, but would not let them come near him. They were welcome to his kills after he had eaten his fill.

Williams shot these bodyguards, and still the big prize was too elusive. Twice the wolf stepped on the jaws of traps, and one night rolled or fell into one, but pulled away, leaving only hair to show that he had been there. Once he cornered the beast in a canyon after he had killed several cattle and eaten his fill, but two horses running up gave the wolf the alarm, and he escaped again. Finally, after another successful escape from a trap which held part of his foot, the bear killed near Big Piney, Wyoming. Not only did this powerful and crafty animal ravish the flocks of sheep with great regularity, but took delight in scaring the sheep so that in their haste to escape the awful fate

Killing the larger beasts, particularly the wolves, in some parts of the west is also a precaution for the protection of human life and health, as they often carry rabies. About 1,500 persons are known to have been bitten by rabid wolves, and half a hundred deaths are officially vouchered for.

Herds attacked by these crazed animals suffer terrific destruction.

Biographies of some of the big beasts killed by Uncle Sam's rifles and traps are stranger far than animal fiction. The most recent of the well-known animal criminals to fall before these hunters was an enormous black bear killed near Big Piney, Wyoming. Not only did this powerful and crafty animal ravish the flocks of sheep with great regularity, but took delight in scaring the sheep so that in their haste to escape the awful fate alarm, and he escaped again. Finally, after another successful escape from a trap which held part of his foot, the "Custer Wolf" got into a trap last October which held him fast. He broke the swivel and ran away with the trap on his foot. Williams trailed him three miles, got a chance at him with his rifle, and brought him down.

Report on Convention

Lloyd Doerfler, official delegate of the Olive Branch society of Mt. Olive Lutheran church in the Walther League convention held in Milwaukee, will report on the convention at the regular meeting of the society Friday evening in Mt. Olive church. The meeting was to have been held on the Hegner lawn on corner Second-ave. and Appleton-st., but because of the unfavorable weather it will be held in the church.

Confessions of a Bride

(Copyright 1920)

Chrys' Veil Is Found
If Chrys were actually lost in the tangle of caverns and sub-cellars, beneath Cersei's garden beds, she might as well have been buried alive. "The opening into the room are all so hard to find," I chattered.

"Put that loot back into its grave!" Daddy spoke to Spence who was pondering above the box in his arms. "Let 'em stay buried forever! Now, Jane! Find her!"

"We'll get out of here in five minutes. Daddy, dear!" Trying to comfort him, I tried to reassure myself. I failed. I realized that a man, lurking in the place might have gauged her, had she lingered behind us.

Chrys had been silent throughout the expedition. She had been preoccupied with her own thoughts. Why not, since Jordan Spence was in our party?

We retraced our steps, going rapidly from the room of the machine guns to the room of the bombs, slipping sideways through a passage too narrow for the width of the human body, descending steep steps into sub-cellars. All the rooms were open as we had found and left them. Chrys was not to be found. We walked softly—at last we gathered, once more in the wine vault. And nobody dared to suggest that our search had proved futile.

Nobody thought of going home. Daddy had his champagne at last. While he sipped and talked, I thought again about poor Chrys. She was as stubborn as Bob, full of whims and quick to act upon them.

"We'll have to use a bomb to break down these walls," was my silly suggestion.

"To bring them down on Chrys, maybe!" Daddy grunted. Champagne had not made him amiable. "Girl, do you know any more secrets about this hole?"

I mediated. In wartime when Bob was with the A. E. F., I had worked as Cersei's secretary. Then I had discovered what kind of a man he was. I had gone down a vertical ladder from a closet on the second floor of his house to the sub-cellars. Once I had lived—rather I had nearly starved—in the labyrinth of rooms underground.

"Maybe Chrys has left the place by a secret passage," I suggested. "Maybe she went out on the impulse, and couldn't get back."

"Just like her," agreed her twin brother. "If I know her at all, she's apt to be waiting in the auto for us—while we worry here!"

"Or maybe she has climbed up a secret ladder!" I threw open the door of a shaft.

"Here! What's this?" Katherine snatched a scrap of blue veiling from a splinter of the door frame.

"Chrys' veil! Her new one! And now it's ruined!" I cried out, as if the last fact were of any importance!

Chick Chickaree

By Olive Roberts Barton

One of the happiest people in whispering Forest when spring came was Chick Chickaree or Rustle Red Squirrel. Not that he minded Jack Frost half as much as his cousin, Scramble Squirrel, did, for days when Scramble was huddled up in a ball in his underground house, Chick was sky-larking all over the hemlock trees in search of cones. Sometimes, of course, he ducked down underground to his winter home and made a meal of apples that he'd hidden away, or acorns, or beechnuts, but mostly he stayed around.

But he'd become sick and tired of his winter diet, and he was tickled to pieces nearly, when nice kind South Wind brought him the news that Sprinkle-Blow, the Weatherman, had succeeded in locking up Jack Frost for good 'n all.

"Now," said Chick, whisking his tail around delightfully and puffing out his cheeks, "I shall be having maple syrup soon. I've already rented a room in Maple-Tree Flats from Mr. Tingling, the fairyman landlord, so I'm all fixed. Besides I've got a hole drilled in the wall of my house, so that the sap will run into it and fill it up. All I have to do is to drink my fill. Won't I get fat now?"

South Wind whispered something more to Chick before she passed on. "Yes, and we should have good weather this spring. Sprinkle-Blow has two helpers called Nancy and Nick and it will be much easier for him to tend to his weather fixings and to keep a sharp lookout for those Nuisance Fairies that live on his star. I don't think that Old Man Flood or Jack Frost will get out again, but there are the others, Thunder and Lightning and Sizzly Dry Weather."

But Chick didn't care. He began to sing.

Kaukauna—The Mutual Chautauqua offered Sois' Marimba band for its attraction on the fourth afternoon and evening of its stay in the city. The statement that the organization has been voted the greatest sensation on the Chautauqua platform was not doubted after the audience of more than 250 people had heard the band play.

Classical and popular numbers were played and were received with enthusiasm. Their rendition of the "Second Hungarian rhapsody" was marvelous.

The program also included the sixth Hungarian rhapsody and several overtures as well as a number of popular selections. "Wang Wang Blues" and "Twelfth Street Rag" were favorites.

ASK COOPERATION OF ROAD BUILDERS

Urge Special Session of Legislature to Provide Funds for Road Work.

Appleton members of the Wisconsin Municipal & Highway Contractors association have received a letter from F. J. Dentache of Milwaukee, executive secretary, urging them to cooperate in furthering the building of good roads in Wisconsin.

"Whether you believe in cooperation or not," said Mr. Dentache, "you should do this for yourself as well as for your employees who have been working road building for a living. Wisconsin has enough suffering idle today, some of whom you should take care of. Even if you can afford to be idle, they cannot."

Mr. Dentache calls attention to the fact that the last legislature failed to make an appropriation for continuing work throughout Wisconsin and without funds the work must cease. Next year the work will be carried on as usual, though in 1922 there will not be funds for even maintenance unless counties levy a tax to carry it on.

The result will be, "said Mr. Dentache, "that your entire investment, as well as that of 125 other contractors throughout the state will be idle or forced to go to other parts of the country for work."

"Think of the heavy losses that will be incurred by all of them unless a special session of the legislature is called to take care of this neglect. Won't you please make it your business to get in touch with your assemblyman and senator, your city and town officials and help create a demand for the special session?"

WOMAN CONSTABLE IS HARD ON VIOLATORS

Mrs. Julia Falsted, constable of the town of Echo, Langlade co., is doing commendable work according to Appleton campers at Lake Enterprise. She is making it a point to enforce the law and has arrested several persons. She is fearless in the performance of her duties and caters to no particular class. One person whom she arrested on the charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated was given a sentence of 60 days in the county jail at Antigo and a fine of $60.

MISSION ASSOCIATIONS TO HOLD CONVENTIONS

Each of these conventions will be followed immediately by a three day's retreat.

At these convention retreats the vestments, altar linens, children's garments and other articles made for the missions by the members of the Missionary Association of Catholic Women will be exhibited. The retreat at Green Bay will be conducted by Father Cyprian Abler, O. M. Cap., and that at Elm Grove by Father C. M. Thuenet, O. P.

Is Green No More

"My experience with your medicine has been wonderful. My stomach and liver trouble of five years standing took a new turn two years ago when I took on an olive green complexion. I spent $1,200 with doctors and specialists only to prove that I was still as green as ever. A friend advised me to take Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, and I am green no more. My stomach and liver trouble has all disappeared." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. ## FOUR FRIENDLY "KIDDIES"

Here is a group of real circus babies. And if they follow in their parents' footsteps all may grow up to be remarkable performers.

The little girl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marco Delano, noted equestrians with the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Combined Circus which is to exhibit here Wednesday Aug. 17.

The cubs—one tiger and two leopards—are the offspring of some of the greatest wild animal actors that ever graced the depths of a steel arena. For this season's gigantic main tent program is different from any that the Ringlings have offered in the past. Its wonders are equally shared by men, women and animal actors. There are three rings and five stages set apart for the human personnel, and four immense steel arenas erected for the four-footed performers.

That is the wild beasts, such as tigers, leopards, panthers, lions and jaguars, perform their tricks in the arenas of steel. The thirty-two trained elephants, the camels, bears monkeys, seals and the like are not enclosed. All the great European animal acts, now first imported, and the more than 600 men and women performers, are presented in one tent and on one vast program. And while these "grown-up" artists thrill their audiences, their children play together. That is how the circus photographer came to get such a fine likeness of little Mary Delano and her four-footed friends. Fluff, the baby tiger of the picture, is the son of Rajah, the giant tiger, that rides an elephant during the circus performance.

RAILROAD SIDETRACKS AT JUNCTION ARE EMPTY

The railway sidetracks at Appleton Junction, which have been crowded with cars loaded with pulpwood and building and road material all summer are now clear the greater part of the time as the shipments of pulpwood have about ceased and the major part of the building material has been delivered. These shipments have kept up business on the Ashland and Wisconsin divisions of the Northwestern road and the Lake Superior division of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road at a time when freight traffic on other divisions of the two railway system was practically at a standstill.

Henry Lauerk of Little Chute, has the distinction of being the first autoist arrested this year for speeding in Henes park, Menominee. He was arraigned before Judge Barstow Monday in municipal court and pleading guilty was fined $2 and costs amounting to $5.

Quite a large group of young people of the city will attend the twenty-seventh annual convention of the Young Peoples Alliance and the Sunday school of the Evangelical churches to be held Aug. 16 to 17 at the camp grounds at Lemont. Miss Amanda Francke and Edward Petzick will be the official delegates from the Sunday school while the local Young Peoples Alliance will be represented by Florence Schmitz. Among the others who will attend are Alvin Rabehl who is the state secretary for the alliance, Franklin and Harold Jordan, Floyd Rabehl, Marie Finger, Mrs. M. Petzick, Ruth Riesenthaler, Hildegard Thiel and Wilmer Sulberlich.

RED CROSS COURSE IN HOME NURSING FINISHED

Home nursing classes conducted throughout the county by Miss Katherine McKinley, Central Red Cross division, Chicago, have ceased with completion of the elementary course. Examinations were taken by 93 women and 125 were given creditable grades. The enrollment in all classes was 187 women.

Most helpful instruction was given by Miss McKinley in Appleton, Kaukauna, Little Chute, Seymour, Black Creek, Nichols, Medina, Dale and Horntowne. She taught the women home hygiene, sickroom and bedside care, how to detect diseases, proper care of children and many other practical phases of a mother's duties. The discussions and answers to questions made the classes quite popular.

Sing at Convention

Community singing will be a new feature at the annual convention of the Wisconsin Retailers association to be held in Appleton, Aug. 15 and 17. It will be led by Dean Carl Waterman of Lawrence Conservatory of Music.

Carl Hanson of the Smith Livery and Transfer company's office, was called to his home in Iola Wednesday night by the serious illness of his mother.

E. Konziman returned Wednesday from Chicago where he had spent several days.

FOUR TRAINS REQUIRED TO TRANSPORT CIRCUS

L. J. LaRose, local yardmaster of the Northwestern Railway Co., expects a long, busy day next Wednesday, circus day. It will not be quite as long, however, as previous circus days as the circus comes hers from Madison, a jump of over 100 miles, and will not arrive as early in the morning as customary. The switching and unloading and loading will take longer than before as it requires four heavy trains to transport the combined shows. Local railway officials have nothing to do with the clerical part of the work as the owners of the circus make their contract for transportation direct with the headquarters of the railway company.

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan bleach and complexion whitener.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes bleach out and how clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes.

COLORS WOULD HELP TO ENFORCE TRAFFIC RULES

An Appleton autoist makes the suggestion that the traffic signs along the sidewalk ought to be painted several colors instead of having all of them red. He says they contain three kinds of warnings, but the average driver thinks they are all alike. Signs requiring parking a distance from corners might remain as they are, but those prohibiting parking in a block, or others requiring parking parallel with the curb ought to have distinctive colors so their purpose will be appreciated more fully, the citizen says.

REMOVE LAST HURDLE TO AID FOR RUSSIANS

By United Press Leased Wire

Riga—One of the last obstacles to American relief in Russia was wiped out Thursday. Conferring with Walter Lyman Brown, head of the American commission, Boris Litvinoff, Soviet delegate, agreed to the demand that all Americans should be permitted to leave Russia.

Litvinoff said the task of notifying all Americans would be difficult but that he hoped it could be carried out satisfactorily. He was assured that deportation of Americans there would not be required.

Brown had another adviser Thursday in Charles R. Crane, former minister to China and an authority on Russian affairs.

Would You Order Gasoline by the Pound?

Then abandon the gravity idea, for gravity is a comparison of weight in relation to water, and nothing else.

It is performance on the part of the car that you want—snappy response, get-away before the rest, smooth acceleration for a spurt, an abundance of power for the hard pull, and tremendous speed for a thrill, or an emergency—you get that by the gas vaporizing at the right temperatures, meaning the correct range of boiling point fractions.

Red Crown has a perfect chain of boiling point fractions.

The High-Grade Gasoline

It makes the motor purr, gives smooth, rhythmic power, and saves wear and tear on the engine—no jerks to rattle the body; no undue strain on the back axle; saves tires; makes greatest mileage. That, and the infinite pleasure of an eager, responsive motor is what Red Crown gives at a saving of about 3 cents a gallon, over what you are asked to pay for gasoline that bases its case on "high test" claims.

Millions use Red Crown. Millions praise it.

MRS. GIBBONS IS BEST TRAINER IN THE WORLD, TOMMY SAYS

FATE IS UNKIND TO YANK WOMEN IN TENNIS TOURNEY

Contender of Dempsey's Crown Hunts and Plays Golf
to Keep in Shape.

Here is another of the stories that Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul light heavyweight, matched to meet George Carpenter and next logical contender for Jack Dempsey, is writing for the Post-Crescent.

BY TOMMY GIBBONS.
Light Heavyweight Contender.
Osakis, Minn.—Every fighter has to have some one to help him train. I didn't have to go out of the family to get my help. But I have a good helper.

Mrs. Gibbons is my first lieutenant. We play golf together. We hunt together. We fish together.

There isn't a thing I'm doing in my building up process to fight Georges Carpenter and Jack Dempsey that Mrs. Gibbons isn't interested in helping me do.

Gibbons I guess I'm pretty fortunate. Constantly keeping in training sometimes gets on a fellow's nerves.

But up here on the lake our little camping-out party suits us both.

I'm not a Jim Barnes nor is Mrs. Gibbons an Alexa Stirling when it comes to golfing, but we get more enjoyment out of it than the ordinary club swingers.

Golfing.

When we are chasing a golf ball over the links, it's roadwork for me.

Mrs. Gibbons realizes this and is willing to play around the course with me if it takes a half day to do it.

The Alexandria Golf club is about 10 miles from our lake. We drive over nearly every day for a game. It's a lot of fun.

And let me say something in behalf of golf—although I'm not an old man yet. It is the best game I know of to get my mind off fighting. You have to think golf when watching your drives even if you can't play it.

Hiking.

I'm doing a lot of hiking now. Keeping on the move is the best thing I do. I take my setter with me. He is always bounding up a rabbit or a bunch of prairie chicken.

We'll soon be hunting ducks. There are plenty of them on the lakes now.

Mrs. Gibbons dons the high-topped rubber boots and wades the mud banks with me. She is a good shot—that is when they aren't scattered too much.

She usually waits until they "sit" before shooting. I prefer to take them on the wing and give them a gambler's chance.

Got on the scales the other day in my hiking clothes and weighed 181½ and I'm not fat, believe me.

I don't want to be a Jess Willard. Just Dempsey's size.

Might Forget His Swing But Never His Clover

Several Stars Sure to Be Eliminated in First Round of Meet.

By Henry L. Farrell.

By United Press Leased Wire.

New York—American girls seem to have incurred the enmity of the fates.

Luck, as manifested in the draw, practically ruined America's chances for the British gold title when Miss Alexa Stirling, America's hope, was drawn in the first round against the great British woman, Miss Cecil Lettich.

In the draw for the national tennis classic which starts Monday at Forest Hills, two of the very best players in America, both possessing a chance against Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, are practically sure to go out in the first round before they get a chance to get started. Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, American national champion, was drawn with Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, who as number two in last year's ranking was next best to the champion. One of them is bound to be eliminated in the first matches.

The second blow came when Miss Eleanor Gross, who ranked No. 5 last year, and whose game this year has been sensational, will be drawn with Mlle. Lenglen. The American has a chance to defeat the French girl, of course, but that chance in the first round is very slim.

The third blow will come in the second round when Mrs. Mallory and Mlle. Lenglen will have to play.

FACTORY LEAGUE ENDS SATURDAY

Kimberly and Combined Locks Still Are in Tie for First Place.

The last game of the Industrial league schedule will be played Saturday afternoon with the exception of one game between the Combined Locks squad and Kimberly-Clark, since both teams are tied for first place. In case either of the two teams loses this week the extra game will not be necessary, but it is almost certain that Combined Locks will not have much trouble with the Fox River Paper Co. men while Kimberly-Clark stands as much chance of defeating the Interlake team as she had earlier in the season.

The schedule of games for Saturday is as follows: Kimberly-Clark vs. Interlake at 2 o'clock; Interlake park; Appleton Woolen vs. Valley Iron at Brandt park; Appleton Coated Paper vs. Northern Boiler players at 3:30; Interlake park; Combined Locks vs. Fox River team at the Locks at 3 o'clock.

PERISCOPE WINS $15,000 PURSE AT NORTH RANDALL

North Randall—The unbeaten 4-year old marr. Periscope, annexed the richest grand circuit racing stake of the year on Thursday, by taking the first and third heats of the North Randall free for all trot, open to all except Peter Manning and Arion Guy, with a value of $15,000. She also was leading in the second when she went into a break about an eighth of a mile from the wire and finished fifth. Millie Irwin taking that heat.

Periscope is owned by the Hollyrood farm, Lexington, Ky., and was driven by J. L. Dodge, one of the owners.

The last mile was raced over a sticky track. Rain fell intermittently all afternoon but the races were continued until after the finish of the big race. Then it came down hard and flooded the track so that it was necessary to postpone the last heat of the last event.

INTER-COUNTY BUS LINE, APLETON, NEW LONDON, HORTONVILLE, AND GREENVILLE LEAVES APPLETON 9:45 A. M.; 12:45, 3:45, 5:45 & 8:45 P. M. LEAVES NEW LONDON 7:45 AND 9:40 A. M.; 12:45, 3:45 AND 6:30 P. M. DAILY.

It is unfortunate that Shehoygan called off its game with Appleton. This game would have gone a long way to settle a lot of arguments about the class of ball in the Fox River and Lake Shore leagues. Naturally, the followers of the Hedding circuit look with scorn on the claims made by the Valley leaguers but players who have cavorted in both wheels think the class of play is about on a par. As a matter of fact, Spencer Heath is hitting harder in the valley circuit than while pitching for Juneau in the Shore league.

Jack Dempsey is headed east again and while in Chicago pretended to know nothing about his proposed bout with Jess Willard. Furthermore, the champion announced that under no conditions would he drop the color line and mix with colored boxers. This attitude doesn't cut much of a figure at the present time because there probably isn't a black fighter in the ring who could give the title holder much of an argument. So far as the Willard match is concerned, Jack would probably welcome it. He likes soft picking.

And Babe Ruth keeps on wallop-

ing 'em. He got his forty-third homer of the season Thursday, and is now nine days ahead of his last year's record. Ruth appears to have come out of his slump in a blaze of glory and he seems to be hitting the ball just as hard as ever. If Babino keeps up his present gait, his top mark in '20 should be passed long before the curtain is pulled down on the American league race.

Johnny Wilson is going to get a chance to regain the middleweight championship on Labor Day. He will fight Bryan Downey in a 12-round no decision bout in Jersey City. Unless we miss our guess, the Beantown Italian is going to be a wiser and sadder fighter after he gets through mixing with the hard hitting Chican.

SCHULTZ TO SPEND SATURDAY HERE ON A FISHING JAUNT

Big Hurler Will Be in Fine Shape for Game at Menasha Sunday.

Hank Schultz should be in perfect condition for the baseball battle at Menasha Sunday afternoon. Hank is due to arrive in Appleton from Milwaukee Friday night or Saturday morning to spend a day fishing. This will keep him away from Saturday ball and give him a chance to get thoroughly rested before Sunday's game. His battery partner, Shott, also will take part in the fishing trip.

There will be no changes in the lineup. Manager Mike Murphy is quite well satisfied with the way the team is going and is confident of evening up the score with the Menasha clan.

There is every indication that the game will develop into a pitcher's battle between Schultz and Heath, with odds about even. Heath bested Schultz in their last start and the big fellow is determined to get even. If his team can get to Heath for a few runs he is confident of holding the Menasha slugs.

Menasha is not resting on her arms this week, according to reports from that city. While there probably will not be any changes in the lineup the men are working nearly every evening to get in shape.

Preparations are being made for a record breaking crowd. Last Sunday the park was jammed to overflowing when Oshkosh furnished the opposition but the rivalry between those two towns is not so intense as it is between Appleton and Menasha. Then there will be a lot of Appleton fans going with the team, assuring the Menasha club owners of capacity business.

SAYS SCHULTE IS BEST IN MINORS

Syracuse, N. Y.—Joe Kelly, famed as a major league baseball scout, while tramping through the bushes for the New York Yankees, sees everything. Kelley's opinion of the merits of the minors is not to be sneezed at.

"Who is the best looking minor leaguer you have seen?" Joe was asked.

"Wildfire" Frank Schulte, was Joe's reply.

Of course, Kelly is aware as is every other man who follows baseball, that Schulte is 39 and has been playing a score of years.

He started with the Cubs so long ago that the average fan has to resort to the books to get the facts.

They remember "Wildfire" hitting out home runs when the Cubs were famous under Frank Chance, but Frank had passed out of their minds.

Schulte is now playing right field for Syracuse, is batting .319, and has made twelve home runs.

He had a bad year in 1920 and they thought he was through. But he came back better than ever this season and looks like the "Wildfire" of the early nineteen hundreds.

POST-CRESCENTS TO PLAY JUNCTION STARS SUNDAY

Pittsburg took a double header from the Cubs at 7 to 3 and 5 to 4. Zinn, pitching the second game, singled in the eleventh, stole second and scored on Robertson's single.

Babe Ruth's forty-third homer helped the Yanks beat the Athletics, 7 to 3. Clarence Walker got his third homer in three games.

Sternard is scheduled to work on the hill for the Post-Crescent with Bergman behind the bat.

100 DRIVERS SUMMONED FOR BREAKING TRAFFIC RULES

POLICE KEEP UP
CAMPAIGN TO END
STREET CROWDING

Chesty Salesman Narrowly Misses Trip to Court for Too Much Mouth.

Approximately 100 autists took a lesson in geometry Thursday at the newly established traffic school conducted by George T. Prim, chief of police. They were taught that angles are found only on College-ave and on no other street in Appleton.

Others had a busy day tagging automobiles that were parked at an angle instead of parallel with the curb on various streets including Appleton and Washington and will keep up their vigilance until every driver is acquainted with the orders of the common council.

One out-town salesman who found a summons tag tied to his steering wheel was quite chesty when he came into the police station with the bit of cardboard in his hand, but went out somewhat humbled.

"Small town stuff," said the man to Chief Prim. "Don't find that done in the big cities."

"No, you don't get that kind of consideration in Milwaukee and Chicago," replied the chief, "but they have traffic rules that must be obeyed. We make a courteous explanation for the first offense, but the big cities take you right into court and levy a fine of $10 or $15. If I had personally seen where your automobile was parked, I would have taken the likes of you right into court without any tagging and see if you would like that better."

The traveling man thought it was cheaper to remain quiet, so ended the argument right there.

S. A. Officers Here
Brigadier and Mrs. Edwy White and Staff Captain Elmer Johnson will conduct a meeting at 8 o'clock Sunday evening at the Salvation Army hall. The brigadier is the division commander for Wisconsin and upper Michigan with headquarters in Milwaukee. Staff Captain Johnson is the young people's secretary for the same district.

WATERPOWER MEN
DECLARE LAWE-ST.
BRIDGE IS NEEDED

Manufacturers Study Problem and Make Proposal to Plan Commission.

Need of a bridge over Fox river at Lawe st. was voiced unanimously by a committee of manufacturers in the "fists" at a meeting Thursday afternoon in the chamber of commerce rooms. The committee was appointed by Mayor J. A. Hawes to study the matter thoroughly and make recommendations to the city planning commission.

Members of the committee represent most of the manufacturing plants that would be affected or benefited by a bridge at Lawe st. It was the mayor's idea to obtain for the planning commission the views of these men as a partial guide in arriving at a solution of the bridge problem. It is possible that a similar committee will be appointed to discuss the Cherry-st. proposal.

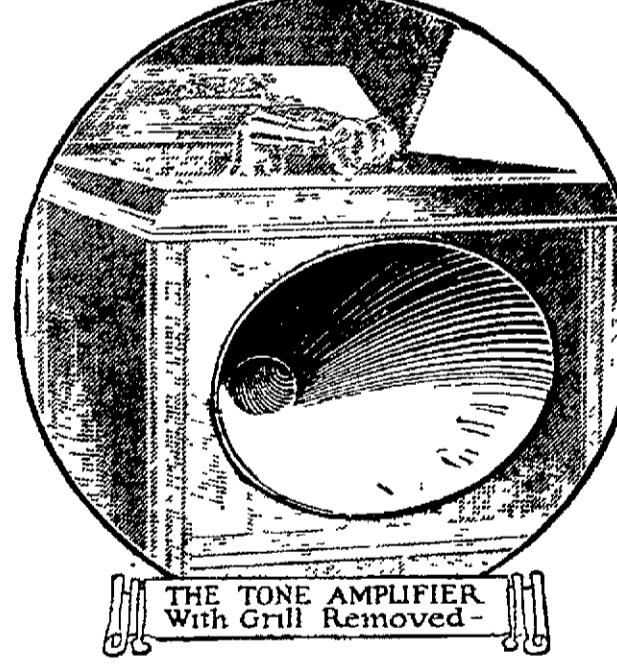

Ten business men forming the committee voted in favor of building the Lawe st. bridge. They discussed the type of structure and the materials that ought to be used and will embody their conclusions in a report to be submitted to the planning commission next week.

THE TONE AMPLIFIER WITH GRILL REMOVED

Tone makes a phonograph. All else is secondary

Did You Know that the Voice

Is the basis of all musical tones?

The voice is controlled and amplified by the mouth.

Therefore the Brunswick Oval Tone Amplifier is shaped like the mouth according to advanced acoustical and musical laws.

It allows tone waves to expand and amplify properly. Built of light, specially treated wood, like a violin, it eliminates all harsh, thin and metallic tone qualities.

So Brunswick tones are remarkably full, resonant and clear. You note even the fine secondary tones or overtones reproduced with wonderful fidelity.

Come in and hear The Brunswick. Your own ear will instantly detect the difference—the greater naturalness—the greater sweetness and purity.

MELON "COONERS"
PAY $5.10 EACH
FOR THEIR FROLIC

Musk melons are high priced—if you steal them.

Two 18 year old youths learned this to their chagrin when they were arraigned in municipal court Thursday morning on a charge of stealing five musk melons from the farm of John Merten in Grand Chute.

Merten's complaint declared the melons were worth $1 but when the two lads pleaded guilty Judge A. M. Spencer told them the charges would be $5.10 each.

IS NOW ANXIOUS TO HELP OTHERS

Saint Paul Woman, Restored By Tanlac, Wants to Pass The Good Word Along

"Others helped me by telling what Tanlac did for them, and now I want to help someone else by telling what it has done for me," said Miss Lillian Sachon of 87 Bonfiave, Saint Paul.

Something over a year ago I began to have trouble with my stomach. I was never hungry, and my digestion was so badly out of order that after every meal gas formed and kept me feeling miserable. At times I was taken with a swimming of the head and would get so weak I thought I was going to faint. I couldn't sleep at all hardly, and often I got up in the morning with a terrible headache that kept getting worse through the day till I could hardly stand it.

I decided to try Tanlac because so many people I knew were praising it. My appetite is now splendid and my digestion seems to be perfect. I can eat just anything and never have a bit of trouble from gas or any other symptom of indigestion. I have no more dizzy spells, headaches are things of the past, my sleep is sound and restful, that tired feeling is all gone and my work is no trouble to me at all. I feel good all the time and my gratitude toward Tanlac is so great I am more than glad to pass the good word along for the sake of others. Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

ARREST YOUNG COUPLE

users of the Appleton police department who were investigating another matter. The pair was turned over to District Attorney Arpe and Sheriff Henry M. Orth of Calumet-co. and was taken to Calumet co. jail to await trial.

Jane Spencer Looks

In the days of crinoline and Paisley shawls a woman was terribly concerned about the state of her linen closet. A hostess kept herself on the verge of nervous prostration for fear her guests were not delighted in the "company linen." Nowadays we never worry—but all the same many a visit is paid to linen counters in anticipation of Fall and Winter needs.

When Company Comes

The Table Dresses Up

Silver bleach damask comes in lovely patterns. It is two yards wide and a fine heavy quality. At $3.50 a yard—a full sized cloth is inexpensive.

Pure Linen Damask

Sewing Days are Here

And pure linen for scarfs, lunch cloths and fancy work comes so much lower in price this year. A 36 inch bleached quality is 98c—the 45 inch width is $1.48.

The New in Autumn
HATS

CURTIS of New York presents exclusive tricorn models in our salons tomorrow. Curtis ateliers were the first to employ the smart Autumn shade of castor. Two of these new hats are splendid examples of this favored coloring. The first is a small tricorn with a pom pom of cut ribbon for the sole trimming.

A large black Belnord hat is sweeping in line. The front slightly rolls up from the face. Belnord also shows another large black hat with a white feather trim.

Indian brown is cleverly emphasized with the use of wooden beads of the same shade in a small hat from Landler. A large panne velvet model is trimmed with pleated gros grain ribbon. It is a DeMarinis creation.

Feather hats are represented by several exclusive models. A small shape of bisque and navy ostrich and a roll brim model entirely of feathers has a Paradise tinge.

While these hats come direct from the fashion leaders of the millinery world—they cost no more than less exclusive chapeaux.
